Each application component must be sized correctly by a professional based on local and state codes. The drawing is a conceptual diagram and is intended to be used ONLY as a basic guide. Application must be designed by a professional engineer or designer. There are many factors that change from application to application. This drawing is a conceptual diagram and is intended to be used ONLY as a basic guide. Application must be designed by a professional engineer or designer.